

	Document	Modern Slavery Declaration
	Revision Number	00
	Reviewed By	Production & QC Manager
	Approved By	Managing Director
	Date of Review	July 2021
	Page No	1 of 2

Modern slavery declaration

Policy statement

Modern slavery is a crime resulting in an abhorrent abuse of the human rights of vulnerable workers. It can take various forms, such as slavery, servitude, forced or compulsory labour and human trafficking.

Van Dyck has a zero-tolerance approach to modern slavery and is committed to acting ethically, and with integrity and transparency in all of its business dealings and relationships, and to implementing and enforcing effective systems and controls to ensure that modern slavery and human trafficking are not taking place anywhere within either its own business or in any of its supply chains, consistent with its obligations under the Modern Slavery Act 2015.

Van Dyck also expects the same high standards from all its suppliers, contractors and other business partners, and as part of its contracting processes, it includes specific prohibitions against the use of modern slavery, and expects that its suppliers will in turn hold their own suppliers to the same standards.

Identifying potential victims of modern slavery can be a challenge because the crime can manifest itself in many ways. There is a spectrum of abuse and it is not always clear at what point, for example, poor working practices and lack of health and safety awareness have become instances of human trafficking, slavery or forced labour in a work environment. In addition, some suppliers may go to great lengths to hide the fact that they are using slave labour. However, the Company accepts that it has a responsibility through its due diligence processes to do all it reasonably can ensure that workers are not being exploited, that they are safe and that relevant employment, health and safety and human rights laws and standards are being adhered to, including freedom of movement and communications

This statement is being made by Van Dyck on behalf of itself and its subsidiary companies and applies to all individuals working for Van Dyck or on the company's behalf in any capacity, including employees, directors, officers, agency workers, volunteers, agents, contractors, consultants and business partners.

Responsibility for the policy

The board of directors has overall responsibility for ensuring that this policy complies with the company's legal and ethical obligations.

Simon Morgan, Director, has day-to-day responsibility for implementing this policy, monitoring its use and effectiveness and auditing internal control systems and policies and procedures to ensure they are effective in preventing or remediating the risk of modern slavery. They are also responsible for investigating allegations of modern slavery in the Company's business or supply chains.

Line Managers are responsible for ensuring that those reporting to them understand and comply with this policy.

Compliance

The prevention, detection and reporting of modern slavery in any part of Van Dyck business or supply chains, whether in the UK or abroad, is the responsibility of all those working for the Company or under the Company's control. All employees are required to avoid any activity that might lead to a breach of this policy.

If you believe or suspect that a breach of or conflict with this policy has occurred or may occur, you must notify either your Line Manager or the HR department immediately. You are encouraged to raise concerns about any issue or suspicion of modern slavery in any part of Van Dyck business or

Document	Modern Slavery Declaration
Revision Number	00
Reviewed By	Production & QC Manager
Approved By	Managing Director
Date of Review	July 2021
Page No	2 of 2

Modern slavery declaration

supply chains as soon as possible.

If you are unsure about whether a particular act, the treatment of workers, or their working conditions within any of the Company’s supply chains constitutes any of the various forms of modern slavery, please raise it with your Line Manager in the first instance.

Van Dyck aims to encourage openness and will support anyone who raises genuine concerns in good faith under this policy. The company is committed to ensuring no one suffers any detrimental treatment or victimisation as a result of reporting in good faith their suspicion that modern slavery is, or may be taking place in any part of its business or in any of its supply chains.

The Company’s zero tolerance approach to modern slavery must be communicated to all suppliers, contractors and other business partners when entering into new or renewed contracts with them.

Training and Communication

Regular awareness training on this policy, and on the risk that the business faces from modern slavery in its supply chains, will be provided to staff as necessary, so that they know how to identify exploitation and modern slavery and how to report suspected cases.

The Company’s zero tolerance approach to modern slavery must be communicated to all suppliers, contractors and other business partners when entering into new or renewed contracts with them.

Breach of the policy

Any employee who breaches this policy will face disciplinary action, up to and including summary dismissal for gross misconduct.

The Company may terminate its commercial relationship with suppliers, contractors and other business partners if they breach this policy and/or are found to have been involved in modern slavery.

M. Zamboni

.....
Managing Director

.....
September 2022